Foreword

We, the class of 1962, happily present our picture-story record of another year at New Palestine High School, a memorable, always to be cherished year, climaxing years of anticipation.

We are thankful for a faculty dedicated to our best interests and an alumni whose well established traditions of a quality school we have tried to uphold.

As you turn the pages of this book, may the glowing spirit of N.P.H.S. stir your hearts anew with precious memories and undying love for this school, our Alma Mater.

Avalon

The setting for the meaning of the Avalon would be the romantic medieval times. Avalon was an ocean island believed to be near the terrestrial paradise. This island kingdom played host to King Arthur when he was finally borne to it by a mysterious barge in Tennyson's "Passing of Arthur."

An island kingdom this book is not; however, if within these pages you find countless and enduring treasures, our purpose will have been accomplished.

Mr. Wilson Steers The Ship Of Education

PRINCIPAL CARL H. WILSON To the students of New Palestine High School Mr. Wilson is far more than the titular head of the school. He is the thoughtful, concerned guardian of the spiritual and moral as well as the intellectual development of the students. He is the zealous father ever striving to impress youth with the magnitude of their responsibility to prepare themselves for life. He is the warm friend, whose personal interest and generous efforts will never be forgotten.

Advisory Board Aids Mr. Jacobi

The advisory board acts as a rudder, aiding Mr. Jacobi in his work. It is faced with many items such as the budget and making plans for building additions to the school. The board has no set date for meetings. It meets whenever an occasion arises that calls for a meeting. These men are very busy with their occupations in addition to serving on this board. Tom Johnson is a contractor, and Wilbur Latz, August Mearling, and Louis Jacobi, trustee, are farmers. However, they find time to be a part of this essential cog of the school system.

Mrs. Basey Does Invaluable Work In The Office

Work which would become irritating to most of us is done each day by Mrs. Basey, our school secretary. She does work ranging from typing and counting money to writing passes and helping each student with his individual problems. It would seem that her work would become routine, yet she comes to school each day with a smile and an attitude that cheers us. Her work may not seem too important, but it is actually of great importance.

Mr. Neeley's Generosity Awakens The Spirit Of Appreciation In The Seniors Of '62

We, the senior class of 1962, wish to express our appreciation and thanks to our teacher, friend, and junior class sponsor, Mr. Neeley. During his three years at New Palestine, Mr. Neeley has at all times generously extended a helping hand to us.

Mr. Neeley's congenial home-spun personality sheds a warm, friendly glow upon his associates. Continued acquaintance with Mr. Neeley brings a deepening appreciation of his depth of character.

Best of luck - a great S.H. Nice having a person like you in Mr. Neeley.

Salute To N.P.H.S. Faculty

The thirty-one members of the New Palestine faculty deserve the highest praise. New Palestine teachers not only have ability to teach, but also possess the ability to help and encourage each student who is striving to learn.

Characteristic of the small school is the close personal relationship between student and teacher. Although this personal interest does prevail at New Palestine, it does not reult in a lack of respect for faculty members. The personal interest of the faculty and the profound respect of the students create an effective educational institution.

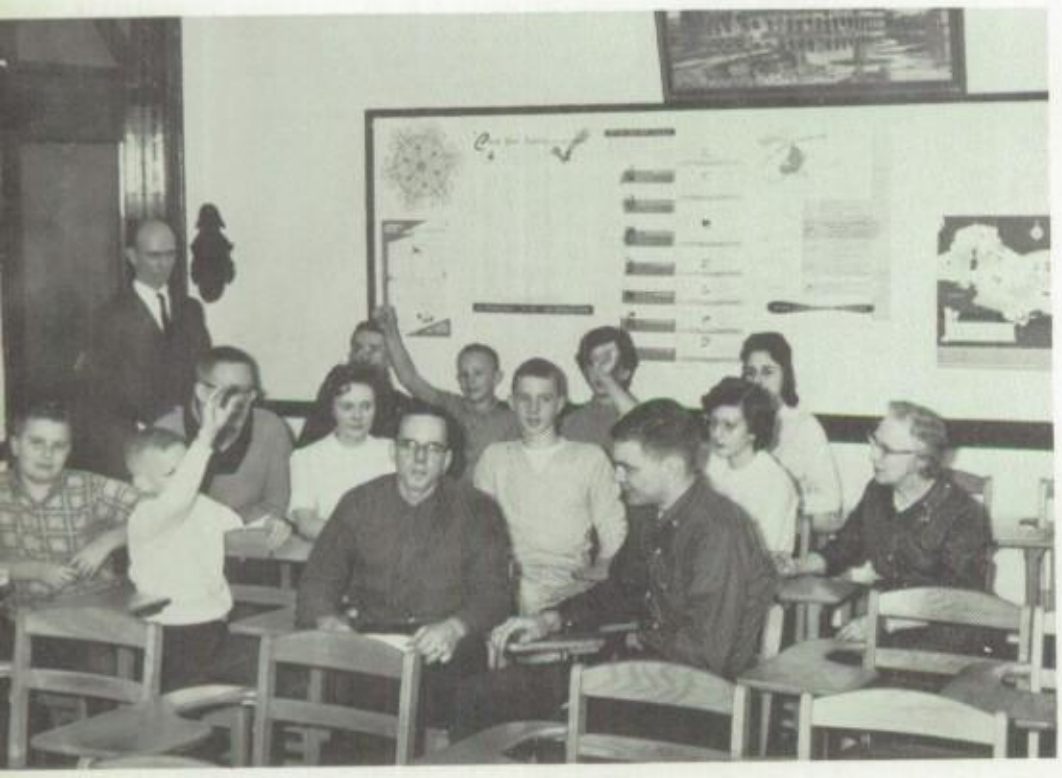
Student Council In Action

The Student Council, a functioning policy-making organization consisting of members from each of the upper six grades, usually finds itself in the middle of several controversial subjects throughout the year. But besides giving its advice on policies that the school might follow, it finds time to sponsor worthwhile activities in the course of a school year.

The members also have an opportunity to let the students know how the faculty feels concerning school life since during their council meetings they often listen to advice given by their sponsors and school principal, besides contributing their own feelings on various issues and projects.

The Council consists of the class presidents plus an elected or appointed student council member from each grade involved.

A council-appointed committee considers the possibilities of a forth-coming project.



Students voice their opinions during a council meeting. Seniors Reach First Major Port

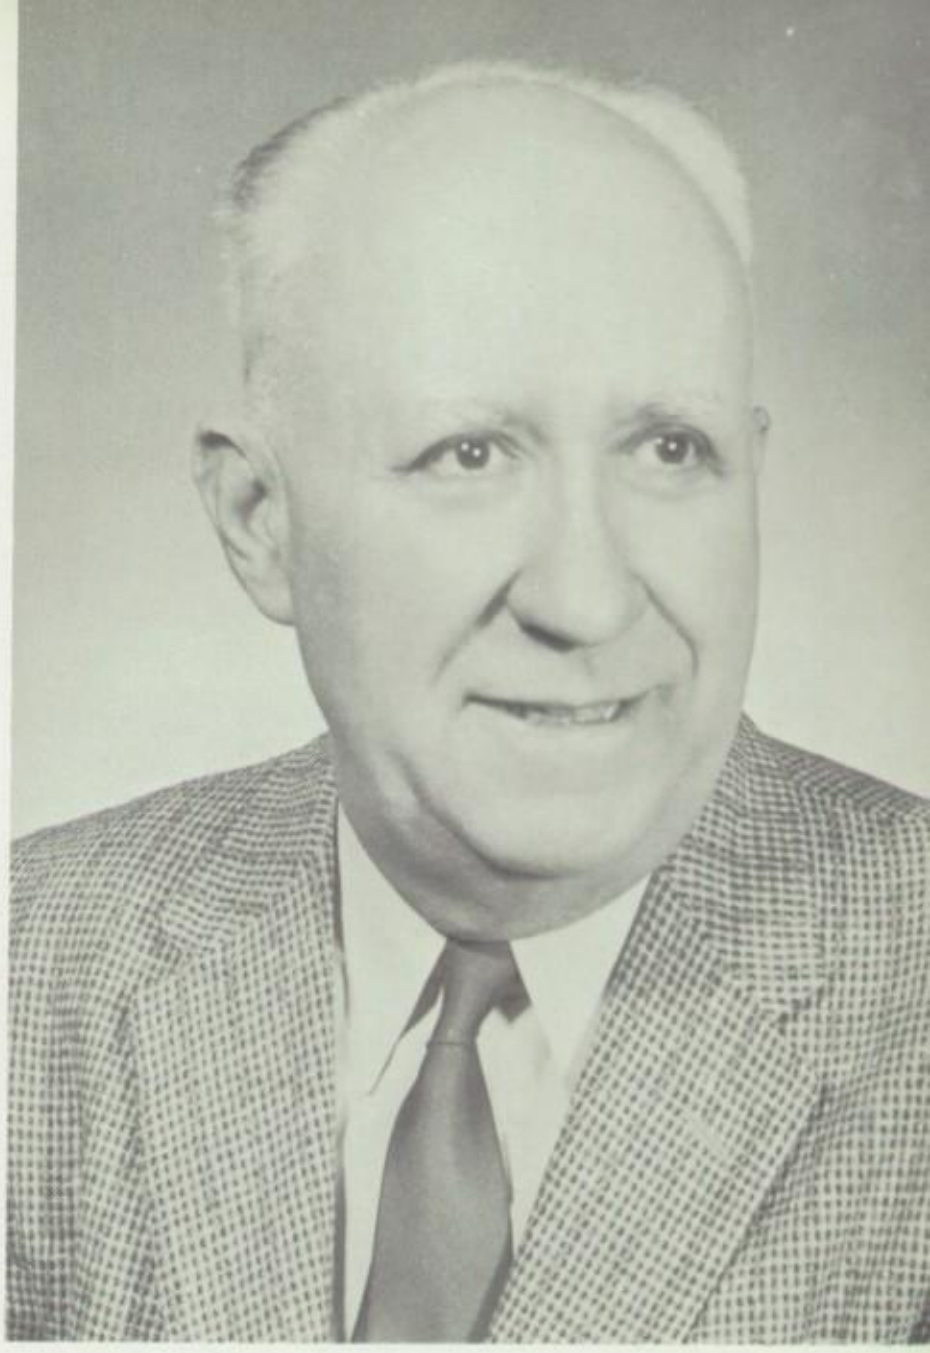
Twelve years ago, September, 1949, we, the class of 1962, spent our first - and oh-so-terrifying - day in school. As the years rolled by, each more exciting and challenging than the last, we grew up and learned to get along with ourselves and with others. We learned through lessons, experiences, and new responsibilities to be the quality people we should be.

As our senior year draws to a close, we look back and recall many fond memories. Our first trying days as freshmen, the arrival of our sophomore sweaters, our long-awaited and long-to-be-cherished junior rings, our "hobo" day, the first thrilling day of being a senior - these are a few of the many memories we shall carry forever with us as we launch forth onto the high seas of life.



Mr. Everson, with his ever cheerful smile and radiating personality, has served us well this year in the capacity of "first mate." He was always available to hear our troubles and guide us, ever so gently, in the right direction.

Mr. Laffin, our other "first mate" has more than once given generously of his time to listen in on our discussions and offer his advice. He has always been behind us with that much-needed word of encouragement.

Juniors Batten Down Hatches For Last Year At Sea

The third year of cruising down the vast sea of high school saw the juniors working hard selling in the candy store and at ball games earning the money that enabled them to give the seniors a prom. The day the class rings arrived will be remembered by each junior. Mr. Neeley, as sponsor, steered them through any rough waters that might have endangered the voyage bringing them to their senior year.

Midshipmen Spend Their Second Year At Sea

This year's sophomores have learned that it isn't always smooth sailing when they take subjects like biology, Latin II, and advanced algebra. Several have used their ability athletically while others have launched out musically. Proudly have they worn their long-awaited class sweaters. The sophomore year was greatly enjoyed while over the rim not too far away the new horizons of their junior year beckoned.

Anchors Aweigh, Apprentice Seamen

The freshman crew are starting their maiden voyage on the sea of high school education. Much is to be learned in the four years crossing such an immense sea, but with the aid of upperclass mates and the guidance of their captains, they will find their Treasure Island of rich reward.

Many have navigated their extra-curricular activities into the unfamiliar waters of chorus, basketball, band, and C.M.

So, Ship ahoy, freshmen, and may you have prosperous years at N.P.H.S.

Log Room - Store Of Fact And Fiction

Eight student librarians help Miss Bird take care of the library. Their duties include checking books in and out, keeping current magazines on display, and keeping the shelves neatly arranged.

This group of students was organized to stimulate interest in the care and management of the library and to give practical instruction in the work of a librarian.

Many students have profited from using the new reference library in the rear of the study hall.

Voyage Of The Avalon

Since 1929, the Avalon has presented a yearly pictorial review of school life at N.P.H.S. All members of the class of '62 desirous of upholding this tradition have striven to make this year's Avalon a true and interesting picture of N.P.H.S.

Trying to achieve the highest possible rating, the Avalon staff has done its best to overcome all problems and present to you this yearbook.

Captains At The Wheel

Melinda Land and John King, the capable captains, make plans to launch the Avalon.

ROW 1: Sue Charnstrom, Ronnie Ferris, Darrel Hartley, Bob Ostermeier, Miriam Neidhamer, Judy Modlin, Jean Abbott. ROW 2: Miss Willis, Carol Kissel, Jo Sparlin, Janet Lawrence, Emma Kleine, Janet Ortel, Sandra Hunt, Mrs. Boring, Mr. Rumble.

Scurrying busily through the upper deck are the mates who collect the smaller pearls-copy, pictures and layouts-into a heaping pile. They work furiously to ease the fervor and tension of the voyage. Steering continuously from the fatal rocks, they work diligently with their ropes, pulleys and planning sheets. Aided by the captains, sponsors and editors, they live in constant danger of the piracy of the red pencil and the menacing deadline.

Crew Designs Bulwark

Business manager, Jim Kracht, is carefully planning the financial agenda for the Avalon.

Striving to design the best possible log for the current year, are Mr. Rumble, Mrs. Boring and Miss Willis, the ship's navigators.

Karen Porter and Jean Abbott worked diligently on the forwarding of the log sales.

Darrel Hartley, an industrious member of the crew, is plotting the art work for the log.

Students Meet Challenge

Nothing could be more gratifying than the feeling of accomplishment gained when students regularly publish their own newspaper.

In the school paper room, possibly more than in any other place in the building, students were keenly aware of the cooperation needed to meet deadlines in the editing, printing and circulation of a school paper.

The sea-worthy captains, David Houston and Margie Conner, prepare to launch a new idea for the ship's ledger, The Crimson Messenger, before assigning detail to the crew.

Having drawn up plans for the ship's voyage, the ad makers await further instructions.

Helping to guide the ship from port to port, the first mates meet to discuss weather conditions.

Of Publishing Own Paper

Many of the 60 students belonging to the different staffs and groups of the CM gained the experience of having to pitch in and give a hand to a phase of printing the 550 copies of the paper slightly different from what they were accustomed to.

The memories associated with the all-popular paper room are ones which, unlike the printer's ink smeared on the mimeograph operator's hands, will not be washed away in a short time.

Mrs. Gruber, Mr. Rumble, and Miss Willis helped guide the ship across stormy seas to reach its destination.

Able-bodied crewmen, Kathy Wood, circulation; Ned Phillippe, mimeograph; Karen Porter, circulation; Wayne Copple, mimeograph; Jim Kracht, mimeograph; and Danny Copple, circulation, drop the anchor as they complete the last lap of the journey. Not pictured: Earlene Miller, circulation.

The reporters dip to the depths of the sea to unearth news to keep our ship sailing smoothly.

Honor Society Mainsail In N.P. Scholastics

The National Honor Society has been a long-time incentive for New Palestine stuents. Its members have striven this year, as in the past, to keep the "Honor" in the name. With capable sponsors and officers as leaders, the members have striven for the four ideals upon which the society is founded-these being scholarship, leadership, character, and service.

The Honor Society pin, with the emblem of the keystone and the torch, is worn with pride by members all over America. It is recognized as a mark of distinction by colleges and employers from coast to coast.

President, Ronnie Ferris; Vice-President, John King; Secretary, Jo Sparlin; and Treasurer, Bob Ostermeier discuss plans for the Honor Society.

"Another day, another dollar," thinks President Ronnie Ferris.

"Well spoken, Mr. Wilson."

Honor Society Members Lead Busy Lives

Members of the New Palestine Chapter of the National Honor Society are constantly in demand when there is a job to be done.

Besides helping with school activities and keeping their grade averages up to par, the members all work together to earn money for the $100 scholarship given annually to one of the society's deserving members.

You see on this page examples of the Honor Society's many activities. The candy and cookie sales, induction of members, and the semi-formal dance are "musts" on each member's agenda.

A more solemn moment.

Orders seem to be coming from the commanding officer. From the happy expressions on the faces of these seventh grade girls, we believe they're pleasant orders.

During the first semester the different Home Ec. classes have been learning the techniques of cooking and the little tricks to make their cooking better. Some of the aromas coming from the Home Ec. room have been yeast breads, cookies, barbecued spare ribs, cream puffs and many other fine dishes.

Girls Learn Fundamentals Of Home Economics

Here two seniors in the cooking department are cooking up a storm. Preparing this unknown product are Janet Aldrich and Earlene Miller.

Being fitted for uniform is freshman Carolyn Hartley by Commanding Officer Miss Kney.

Throughout the second semester all the classes prepared clothes for the summer. Some garments being made were suits in an array of fine materials. There was a fashion show held at the end of the year.

Just waiting for their dinner are freshmen shipmates Karen Cecil, Dian Ostemeier, Sharon De Witt, Linda Plummer, Mary Schroeder, and Sandra Kleiman.

The Ship's Band Provides Enjoyment For Many

Under the direction of Mr. Raymond E. Laffin, the New Palestine High School Band has again this year maintained its many traditional honors.

Among its activities were playing for the Lions' Club fish fry, the Southport marching contest, basketball games, spring concert, and the spring festival at Greenfield.

Individual musicians have also added other medals to their collections by participating in district and state solo and ensemble contests.

Students Raise Their Voices In Song!

Students who enjoy singing have found it very rewarding to join chorus and madrigal.

This year we have the largest chorus in the history of New Palestine with 119 members. Under the direction of Mr. Laffin both the madrigal and the chorus have had a very successful year.

Girls Set Sail For Adventure In Twirling

Girls who wish to have many fond memories set sail to become a Dragonet. At home games the Dragonets are featured for halftime entertainment. Many of the girls spend long hours in practice preparing routines for District and State contests. This year the Dragonets were composed of one drum major, one feature twirler, assistant feature twirler, six majorettes, twelve flag twirlers, and four pom-poms.

Coach Cones Builds Manly Athletes

In the long, time-consuming hours spent after school with the athletic teams Coach Cones has, in addition to leading his teams to superior season records, instilled in the boys qualities of leadership, sportsmanship, and character which they will carry with them for many years to come. Mr. Cones has always maintained a warm and personal interest in each of his athletes and has spurred them on to the height of their ability.

Dick Richwine (45) battles for a rebound.

The heirs-to-be of the title, "Varsity Spit-fire Dragons", have the makings of real basketball players. Although their win-loss record was not spectacular, these freshmen have shown real desire and that quality of "not giving up without a fight."

Having received the backing that concentrated effort in a sport deserves, the frosh team had exceptional support from their fans and their four cheerleaders.

The Junior High team of 1961-62 proved to be a team to be reckoned with. With the aid of their tall men, not forgetting their playmakers, they chalked up an impressive season record, completely over-powering many of their opponents. An eye should be kept on these future high school athletes as they displayed the ability of a team that can get things accomplished on the hardwood.

And from the sidelines, the cheering that urged them on was led by their pert and peppy cheerleaders.

The Dragons began their season slowly with very little fire showing on the floor, losing four of their five games. But as the season progressed, the varsity began to come to life. And any team encountering the hot breath of the Dragons during the latter part of the season soon discovered this aggressive group of boys was not to be denied its taste for victory. Season's record - 12 wins, 9 losses.

Captains And Crew Sport Smiles Of Victory

The Dragons were well supported this year by top-notch Pep Block of eighty-six members. Loyal backing generated a roaring Dragon spirit.

Girls in red caps and white blouses and boys in white shirts, striped vests and red ties presented a very bright, colorful appearance at the games.

Training at Smith-Walbridge Camp and competition at I.U. Cheerleading Conference assured the Pep Block that its cheerleaders were competent.

Snappy pre-game pep sessions and bonfires added enthusiasm to team and fans.

Seaworthy Captains Karen Kingston, freshman; Susan Mueller, junior; and Denise Mattingly, sophomore, guide the crew and first mates onward to each victory.

Cindermen Run For Team Victory

"Run, Run!" These are the words you will hear at any track meet. A trackman can win a victory only by running. Unlike other sports, track is a sport for anyone, the only requirement being work, not work with a ball, or a bat, but with oneself.

The track team finished the 1960-61 season with one victory and two losses, placing fifth in the County Meet.

Guy Sellmer and Lowell Wilkins combined to break four records to highlight the season.

Cross Country Runners Develop Stamina

In its second year of participation, New Palestine's Cross Country team placed fifth in the County Meet. Although the team suffered a losing season this year with a 1 and 6 record, much experience was gained, improving hopes for next year's schedule.

The gruelling two-mile Cross Country course winding through fields, woods, and streams demands courage, stamina, and physical ability. The runners of this event deserve great respect for their character.

The Heads Of The Galley Cook For The Crew

The cooks, faced with the enormous task of preparing meals for an average of 475 students a day, are striving to give the students a wider selection of appetizing vegetables and sandwiches. To aid in their work they attended the Indiana Restaurant Convention in Indianapolis during October. Many long hours are spent at a job that to many would become routine. Their services will always be remembered by all.

Janitors Make NP A Proud School

The team of custodians who can be seen at all hours diligently maintaining the cleanliness of our alma mater represents three men who display the pleasant dispositions all the students enjoy. Besides doing their best in keeping NPHS in top condition, these men are real friends to the faculty and students with whom they associate.

Hats off to these gentlemen who help make our school one to be proud of!

By using a variety of types of equipment, Bill Short, Elbert Fowler, and Fred Duncan keep the floors sparkling!

Each day the thirteen drivers who average eight years' service, bounce their buses over 240 miles of washboard, gravel, and blacktop roads. Sometimes they become mired in mud and bogged in snow drifts. Each year the State Police check the buses for defects and unsafe conditions, thus insuring safe voyages for the students.

Students enjoy the companionship of others while traveling to and from school and arrive at school fresh for the studies ahead of them.

Approximately six hundred students ride the bus to school each day. Some buses are equipped with radios for the students' enjoyment.

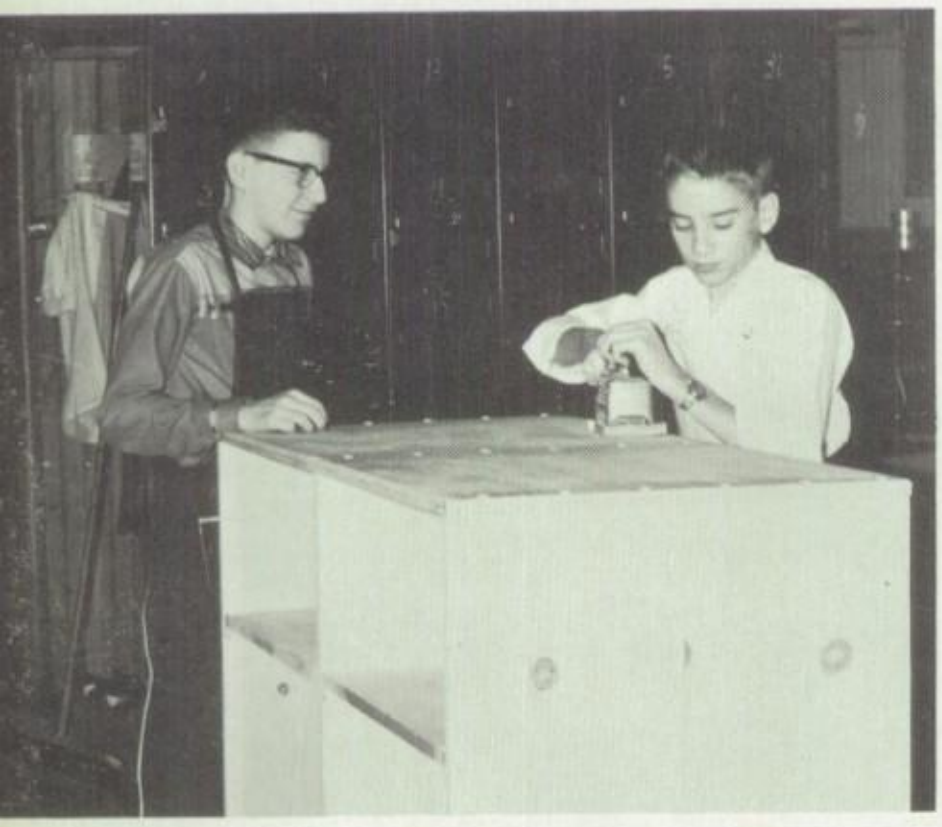
Shop Guides The Mechanically Minded!

Mr. Everson watches carefully as students acquire mechanical drawing skills.

In the tension-free atmosphere of the shop, which is removed somewhat from the other classrooms, not only is adeptness in mechanical and building skills sharpened, but also there is the realization that the teacher present is one who is glad to listen to and advise students on problems they might have.

Yes, Mr. Everson's shop and mechanical drawing classes are ones that will not soon be forgotten.

And in the homes of many shop students are various pieces of furniture which have been designed and fashioned by the students themselves as they progressed in their abilities to do things with their hands.



An important part in the building of a piece of furniture is removing any rough or uneven surfaces.

A shop student demonstrates his ability in the use of a lathe.

Eighth Grade Anticipates High School

As the eighth graders look ahead into the future, they see years filled with much happiness and excitement.

High school sports, activities, new subjects, and responsibilities will all add to the fulfillment of their lives. The activities, they will find more meaningful, and the sports, more exciting. The subjects on the high school level will be more challenging. But most of all, the responsibilities will teach each to grow to be a citizen most beneficial to his community, his country, and his God.

We, seniors, foresee for them a high school career rich in memories that will be forever cherished.

The New Palestine Kindergarten is a cooperative kindergarten for children in the surrounding area. Classes are held three days a week. The purpose of the kindergarten is to teach the pre-school child to learn to live in a group successfully; to develop independence and assume responsibilities in accordance with his age; to build health habits; to improve muscle co-ordination; to follow directions and appreciate music and self-expression through singing and rhythms.

Each day the children learn some phase of reading readiness, listen to a story, participate in action games or songs, handcraft, rhythm band, show and tell time, and activity time, which includes easel and finger painting, hammer sets, puzzles, block corner and playhouse corner.

The children enjoy trips to a farm, bakery, pet shop, ice cream and milk plant, fire station, museum, library, flower shop, post office, and a trip on the train.

Lutheran Education Blends Religious And Secular

A school date at Zion Lutheran Grade School opens with devotions led by Principal Richard Reese with all students participating in the Bible reading, hymn singing and prayer.

Preceding the day's study of school subjects, all have a class in religion, Mrs. Ruth Ortel teaching Bible history and Catechism to the first three grades, Mr. Reese to the fourth, fifth, and sixth, and Pastor Werner P. Krug to the seventh and eighth.

The school day is closed with the praying of the Lord's Prayer.

Humor, Inspiration And Entertainment

Occasional convocations provide a pleasing and profitable break in the regular class schedule routine.

The Rev. David Lawson brought to us an inspiring Thanksgiving message. He urged us to be especially thankful for the blessings we have received.

Mr. and Mrs. Galvano, Hawaiian entertainers, honored our school with native songs and dances. Their program was both enjoyable and educational.

The Speech 12 class presented a play entitled "Song of Glory." It portrayed a small town and the citizens' interpretation of the real meaning of Christmas.

An all-school program at the end of the year gave each class the opportunity to display its various talents.

Master of Ceremonies, Jim Kracht, eloquently presents the cast and special numbers for the Speech 12 Christmas program.

Dave Houston, student director, observes Kay Boring enacting her role as Miss Allison Drew in the Christmas play.

Comprise 1961 and '62 Convocations

Gene Hammeren played the Department Store Santa Claus, telling Bill Anderson (Guy Sellmer) and Miss Allison (Kay Boring) what Christmas means to him.

Jan-the-Man, a young entertainer with an overflowing talent, privileged the students and teachers of NPHS with an entertaining program, during 1961. His magic left the audience in awe and wonder as he used members of the audience for his assistants. This humor-packed program provided relaxation from the strain of an average school day. Among the convocations presented, Jan-the-Man might possibly be a favorite of all.

Class Of 62 Leaves Audience Roaring In Gales Of Laughter

A capacity crowd was entertained by the antics of the Class of '62 in their junior class play "The Very Opposite Sex", a three-act comedy, by William F. Davidson.

Four Junior Achievement Companies competed in selling such products as horse feathers, a highway helper which told impatient drivers to drop dead, a plumber's friend trouble light, and "You" perfume. The characters engaged in numerous hilarious activities including hiding in trash cans, attending a formal award night in dirty slacks and sweatshirts, and having numerous arguments between irrational people.

The cast included a variety of people ranging from two talkative eleven-year-olds to a sophisticated department store buyer.

"Quick! Into the trash can before your mom or Roger sees you."

"Binky, did you steal those tires?"

"Officer, considering that these kids are all members of. . ."

Favorite Scenes

All Hands To Work

Larry Borton is only one of the many shipmates in the junior class. Each year the junior class and their captain man the Candy Store and Coke machine.

While Larry's main job is to fill the Coke machine daily, he also works with the other juniors selling candy in their store.

The profits from the machine and store go to the junior class to be used for the yearly Junior and Senior Prom and for other junior activities.

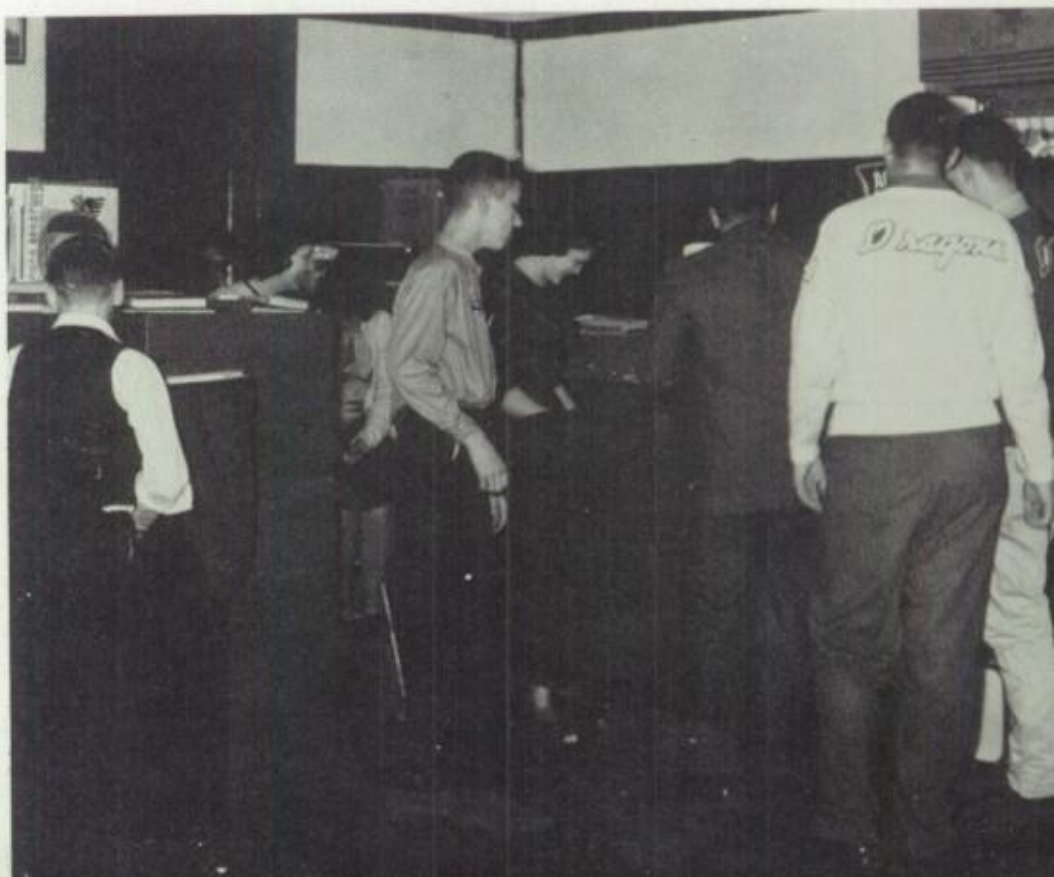
All of this keeps the junior class busy.

Music Ahoy

During the weeks before contests, festivals, and other music functions, the band room is a very busy place. At noon it is a favorite place for bandmates and other shipmates to talk over the morning's happenings.

Here the captain of the Music Department, Mr. Ray Laffin, holds his classes and gives much individual instruction to the students.

After lunch it's time to relax and to talk and laugh over the morning experiences.



Our Cabin

Many are the memories we hold of the paper room with her smell of printing fluids and the ever-present humdrum of the typewriters and the duplicators.

The joys and heartaches we experienced in keeping her shipshape will never be forgotten.

Within her hull we have gathered many a time with our shipmates for jokes, for discussion of our many and varied problems and most of all for many hours of careful planning and serious, deliberate thinking.

Like the loyal sailors who grieve the loss of their ship when she goes down into the ocean depths, so we the Seniors of '62 will grieve the loss of our "fair Ship" when she goes down into the inky depths of our memories.

Our hard-working, serious-thinking first Mates.

Can't seem to get a "bite" in edgewise.

The Galley

To have spent more of our time here in the cafeteria quietly conversing with our fellow "mates" over a delicious meal prepared by the ship's cooks would have been enjoyed by all, for it was here at the Senior Table we found recluse for a time and weathered many a storm because we were able to shut out the angry, turbulent sea which was ever pounding against the Galley door.

The few minutes spent here each day nourished more than our bodies; they nourished our minds and souls as well. Each time we passed through those doors we were better able to keep our bows above water and head toward the oncoming gale.

The pleasant conditions we encountered here seemed to keep our masts from snapping, and we fared well during every storm.

Yes, we'll miss the old ship's Galley after these twelve hard years at sea, but perhaps for some of us there'll be another galley in our lives which will enable us to carry on when the sea again becomes rough.

Familiar Sights Of Our Main Port, N.P.H.S.

These are only a few of the familiar sights we see each day. There are many others around our ship of which the whole crew makes use. The cafeteria, library, study hall, and the office are examples of how well our captains run the ship.

This is our annual Christmas tree after it has been anchored in the Study Hall. Its gay decorations add much to the room during the Christmas season.

There is always quite a crew buying milk during the noon hour.

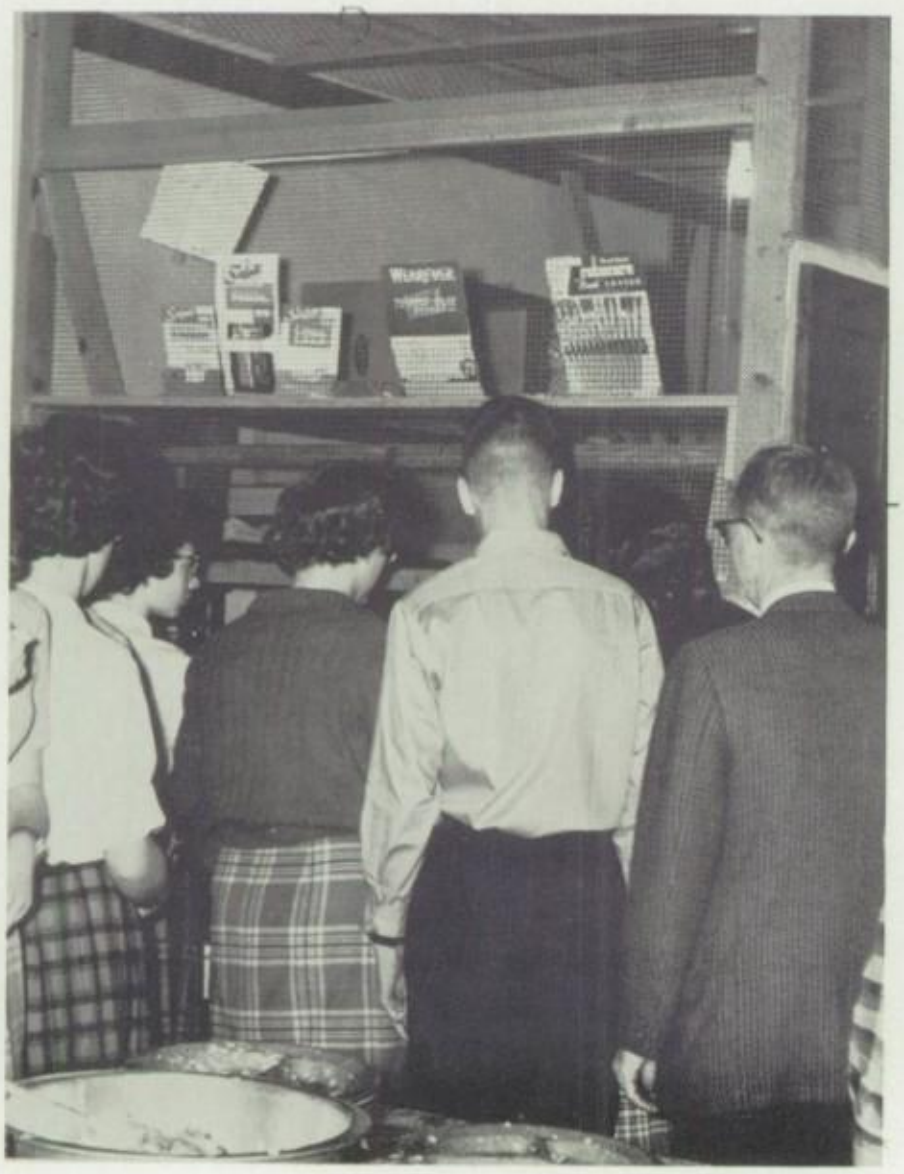
Familiar Scenes That Add Life To Our Main Harbor

There are many favorite scenes about N.P.H.S. that we we'll never forget. There will always be memories of them as we sail on to new adventures in life.

These sights are some of the most frequently recognized ones. There is always much activity going on at each. These places add variety, cheerfulness, and zest to all of us each day.

A familiar sight to all is our home port where we land each day.

The candy store helps keep the whole crew sweet attracting teachers and students alike.



The gym landing is one of our main decks at the noon hour. The popcorn and coke machines help draw our crew there each day.

Mr. Moore keeps us sailing smoothly with his witty comments and thought provoking questions.

The galley often rocks with waves

As the bell rings, we sail to the high seas with Mr. Eckart impressing us with the importance and beauty of our Ship of State.

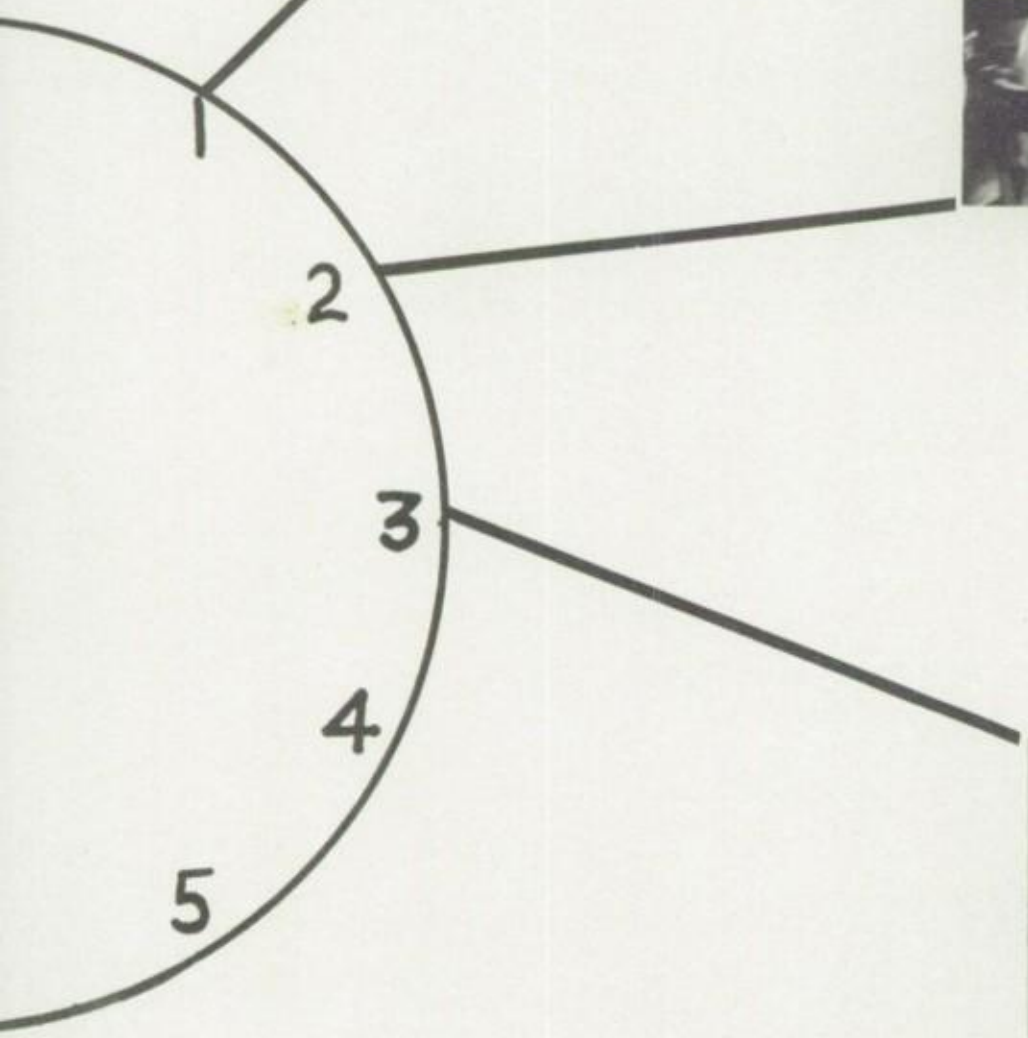
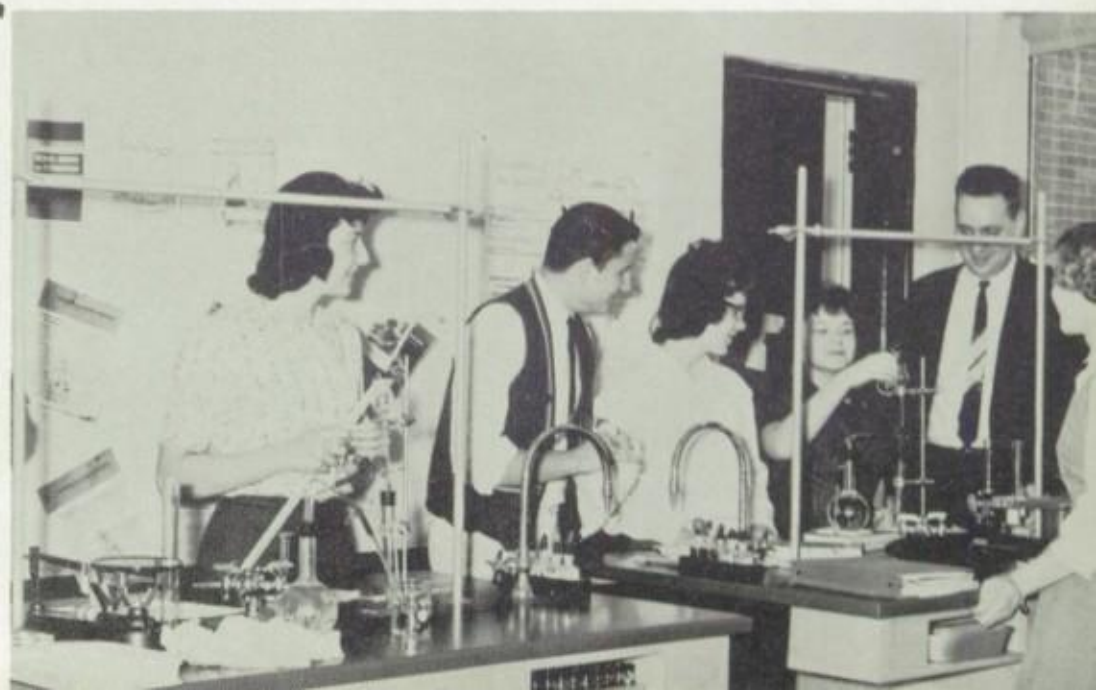
of laughter from the senior quarters.

"My classmates, in the words of that great sailor, Columbus I, too, urge you to 'Sail on, and on, and on!'"

The Clock Seniors

Mr. Glesing, as navigator, charts the course of the health ship.





Chemistry students must be on the alert for explosions which might "rock the boat."

To Linda:

I am not to good at words, however I am going to tell you what you really mean to me. You are a ray of sunshine in a dark room, you are a cool breez on a very hot night, you are the softness of a roses petal, but most of all you are mine.

The times we have had together are beyond all my ability of expression. You have made me a new person, I used to be wild, but thanks to your sweet love for me I am as tame as a tiny kitten. You are so kind hearted, understanding, and very considerate of course one has to be if they are to find happiness with good old "Beansie". Our little visits on Sunday are very wonderful I have always thought, and I do hope I don't wear out my welcome. A line from — Henry David Thoreau reads: "Goodness is the only investment that never fails", and I feel that this is very true in your case.

I am very nervous now and will be more so later on this evening but I will know and realize that you will be out there with faith and hope for me. I have tried to say what I know I feel for you and have did my best, there is much more that I would love to tell you but time does not permit and I am ~~first~~ not sure I can put it in words, it is just a funny feeling in my heart for you.

Luck Always,
May God be with you always.
